Dear Parent/Guardian:

As I gain more experience as a teacher, one thing has become very clear to me: Young children really need parental support and involvement to get the most out of their lessons. This type of lesson is unique because the emphasis is on the parent and child learning together through games and activities that can be done during the week. Because the parent is present and attentive during the lessons, I am able to explain the purpose of each activity and give instruction when needed. For parents without musical experience, it is a wonderful opportunity to learn alongside your child. Parents who already know about music will learn new and effective ways to reinforce musical knowledge and concepts with their children. STUDENTS FROM THE SUMMER SESSION ARE INVITED AND ENCOURAGED TO CONTINUE WITH TEACHER RECOMMENDATION.
